

Pacific Northwest Fungi

News for June, 2006

We are pleased to welcome Jack Rogers, Professor of Plant Pathology at Washington State University, to the Editorial Board. Jack is well known as an authority on Pyrenomycetes and a long time student of the fungi of the Pacific Northwest. He also is curator of the Mycology Herbarium at WSU, one of the major fungal collections in western North America.

This month has seen a number of small changes and updates to the website. We will be adding new links and information about upcoming mycological events on an ongoing basis. If you have any news for us, or mycological links that you would like to suggest, please email us.

Dean Glawe
Editor-in-Chief
daglawe@earthlink.net